"Backward"

The last time I wrote a foreword it was headed "Forward" – which though unintended was inappropriate. This time, however, "Backward" would be more apt as a heading, for I'm prefacing a publication that looks to the past: the past 25 years. That's how long "the law school" (department, school, and faculty) has been in existence. In that time, more than two thousand students have completed degrees and/or certificates and more than one hundred teachers have come and gone (or, in some cases, stayed on and on...). For me, one of the more rewarding aspects of the job is the chance to get to know Hong Kong law students. The major difficulty, however, is to remember their names, especially once they've become alumni, and this book will prove invaluable in this respect. I think I generally recall faces – I can't be certain, because whenever I fail to recognise someone I of course do not realise that I failed to recognise him or her – but putting a name to a face is the hard bit. I assume alumni understand this. Indeed, occasionally I recognise a former student who appears not to recognise me. This book won't help much with this problem. But it will be an entertaining record of the law school and I greatly appreciate the effort which has gone into compiling it. The editors of the Golden Jubilee publication will find it particularly useful!

The Hon. Sir Ti Liang Yang
CHIEF JUSTICE'S CHAMBERS
SUPREME COURT
HONG KONG

In June 1989, we celebrated the Twentieth Anniversary of the Faculty of Law and formation of the Law Faculty Alumni Association. Since then, the Faculty of Law has moved further in developing its curricula, broadening its scope of research and producing much-needed legal writing for the benefit of the profession.

This year, the Faculty of Law celebrates its Twenty-fifth Anniversary with its 1,750th law graduate. Lawyers have an increasing vital role to play in the lead up to the next century with the constant demand for high-quality legal services and with the historic opportunities presented in Hong Kong.

Without the contribution of graduates from the Law Faculty, the legal profession, the Judiciary or indeed the legal system, Hong Kong would not have been as strong as it is today. May I wish the Faculty continual success in producing generations of lawyers who are as dedicated and successful as their predecessors in their service towards the betterment of Hong Kong. I eagerly look forward to celebrating its Thirtieth Anniversary.

T. L. Yang
Chief Justice
Pro-Chancellor

Greetings to the Faculty of Law on the occasion of its Silver Jubilee!

Measured against some time scales, 25 years is not a long time. Yet within this quarter of a century we have seen the Faculty grow from its humble beginning, and with just a handful of undergraduates, to the present day where some 700 students attend its full-time and part-time courses. The fast approaching date of 1997, and the convergence of the legal systems of Hong Kong and China, makes the presence of these trained legal minds ever more a necessity and essential requirement in Hong Kong. I have every faith that over the coming years the Faculty of Law will continue to play its part in providing Hong Kong with the highly skilled lawyers who are destined to play such an important and continuing role in charting the territory's legal path through the years ahead.

THE FACULTY OF LAW

George Keeton, later to become an eminent and prolific legal scholar, was the first law teacher appointed to the University of Hong Kong - in 1924! The second law teacher followed forty years later, when the Department of Extra-Mural Studies began teaching for the external LLB of London University. That was when Dafydd Evans and John Rear came to Hong Kong. When it was decided soon afterwards to establish an internal LLB at HKU, these two formed the core of the new Department of Law. Bernard Downey was recruited to join them and the Department was launched in 1969 with a quota of just 40 students in the first year. Alan Smith arrived and Leonard Pegg came over from Singapore in 1970, followed the next year by the appointments of Raymond Faulkner, William Stone, and Richard Field. Twelve months later the first Hong Kong citizens - Bob Ribeiro and Ronny Wong - became law teachers in the university, shortly followed by Richard Russell. This was when the Postgraduate Certificate in Laws was introduced. In 1973 four new teachers arrived: Peter Willoughby, Bob Allcock, and two Antipodeans, the New Zealander Barry Lovegrove and the Australian Peter Wesley-Smith.

It is remarkable that so many of these early recruits stayed on in Hong Kong. Downey retired just this year from the District Court; Smith is the managing director of Jardine Fleming;

Wong (presently Chairman of the Bar Association), Ribeiro, Faulkner, and Stone are at the local Bar; Russell is within Johnson, Stokes, & Master, Allcock is Deputy Solicitor General; and Wesley-Smith remained with the university and is now Dean. Willoughby spends half his time in Hong Kong and has a visiting professorship with the City Polytechnic. Evans did not leave until 1990, Rear comes back regularly to persuade local students to enrol in his university in Britain, and Field occasionally visits from the English Bar to appear in the Hong Kong courts. Only Pegg, who is pursuing his musical interests in Britain, and Lovegrove, in a country practice in New Zealand, have not been seen here in recent times.

The first two decades of the Department's history present a story of constant expansion and diversification. The number of students admitted to the first year jumped from 44 to 55 to 70 to 105 to 115 and then in 1986 to 150, its current figure; the PCLL quota is now 200 and is supplemented by students doing an identical course at the School of Professional and Continuing Education within the University. The subjects taught have increased substantially with the availability of options. Teaching staff were recruited from a wider area: more Australians (Susan Kneebone, the first woman appointee; Roderick O'Brien, now a Catholic priest in Adelaide; Philip Griffiths), another New Zealander (John Miller), an Israeli (Roda Mushkat), several Canadians, an American, an Irishman, a few more from Hong Kong (notable among them Albert Chen, now Head of the Department of Law), and more recently teachers from South Africa, Kenya, Tanzania, Sri Lanka, the Philippines, and mainland China. Our latest appointee is Anna Tam, who like Albert Chen and Johannes Chan and several others, is one of our own graduates. The Department of Law, originally belonging to the Faculty of Social Sciences and Law, became a School in 1978 and six years later a separate Faculty with departments of Law and Professional Legal Education. Research degrees, though initially attracting few students, were available from the beginning, and in 1986, a very popular LLM degree was established, followed recently by two Postgraduate Diplomas.

The Faculty of Law reached its optimum size and strength several years ago but is now facing contraction as its budget is likely to be progressively cut over the next few years. Until 1988, when the City Polytechnic began teaching for an LLB, it was the sole provider of legal education leading to a law degree in Hong Kong. Over the last five years we have moved into the K K Leung Building, revamped the LLB curriculum, introduced a unit system, expanded the choice of options for second- and third-year students, further developed the PCLL course, and strengthened relationships with other institutions. Our scholars have produced a large number of books on Hong Kong law and have been awarded several large grants from the Research Grants Council, while the Faculty itself has published a research report, various collections of conference proceedings and seminar papers, a bulletin of Bill of Rights law, and other publications including a regular newsletter. In 1993 it considerably enhanced its role in the management and publication of the Hong Kong Law Journal. Staff are much involved in organisation of the annual Law Lectures for Practitioners and in producing and editing the volume of transcripts. Members of the Faculty are also engaged in law reporting, professional committees, law reform, and the administration of seminars, special lectures, and conferences. Our research and teaching are coming under rigorous scrutiny by the university and the UPGC. We are in the process of establishing a centre for public and comparative law, our unreported judgments database project has been completed, and our Law-on-Line database is rapidly expanding. We've been very busy, and in the next few years we're likely to be busier still. It may be that, after the resumption of Chinese sovereignty, the assumptions which underpin the legal system here will come under attack. This would present a great challenge to the legal profession and to those of us involved in legal education, and we are confident we have the intellectual resources to respond.

... THE PAST 25 YEARS

For the Silver Jubilee a number of events have been planned. The Alumni will hold a Silver Jubilee dinner. Prior to this alumni dinner the Faculty is hosting the inaugural Eric Au Memorial Lecture (delivered by Sir Robin Cooke, President of the Court of Appeal of New Zealand), and a conference on the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights. The Law Association is planning a Silver Jubilee Ball. Still to come are a conference on the Basic Laws of Hong Kong and Macau, held in association with the Institute of Comparative Law in Macau, a seminar on legal education in Hong Kong, and a major conference on "Law and Change in Hong Kong - The Challenges Ahead". On the afternoon of 3 December we will be holding the first separate Law Congregation, with the Chief Justice presiding.

It seems obvious now that the establishment of Hong Kong's first law degree in 1969 was far too long delayed, and it was perhaps inevitable that the school would play a significant role in the legal system. Imagine how the commercial community would have fared in the '70s and '80s without the stream of graduates we produced! Our alumni now number three members of the Legislative Council, four Supreme Court judges, eight QCs, one judiciary administrator and several prominent government lawyers and academics. There was virtually no such thing as secondary literature on the law of Hong Kong until the Hong Kong Law Journal began publication in 1971; now there is too much for most people to hope to read. Without our sustained contribution to the study and teaching of the local law and legal system the process of constitutional and legal reform would have been much more difficult. And imagine how Hong Kong would have faced the change of sovereignty without its HKU law academics and alumni!

It is now without some pride that we look back over 25 years. The Basic Law gives the legal system at least another 50 years beyond 1997, along with academic freedom and autonomy for educational institutions. The Faculty of Law is committed to continuing its work of analysing, reviewing, critically assessing and teaching Hong Kong law throughout the SAR period.

POSTGRADUATE DIPLOMA IN COMMERCIAL LAW

LI Yuen Yee, Angel

HOW HAVE TIMES CHANGED ?

We tried to find out by posing a set of identical questions on different views of Law School/Faculty life, careers and Hong Kong's legal system to two "first batch" HKU law graduates and some of this year's graduates. Here is how they responded:

Ronny	- Ronny Tong, QC	(LLB 1972)
Jack	- Jack Young	(LLB 1972)
Hilda	- Hilda Wong	(LLB 1994)
Patrick	- Patrick Szeto	(LLB 1994)
Eric	- Eric Yung	(LLB 1994)

1. Before you entered law school, did you have a clear intention to practise law upon graduation? If not, why did you choose law?

Ronny	:	Yes.
Jack	:	Yes. I was very clear about it.
Hilda	:	Yes
Patrick	:	Yes.
Eric	:	Not really. I was looking for a good education, one that would help me develop my thinking skills and linguistic ability.

2. Did you attend all lectures? If not, how did you spend the time instead?

Ronny	:	No. I used the time to look up cases in the library.
Jack	:	No. I used the time chasing after girls and doing sports.
Hilda	:	I attended all lectures in my first year. Overall, I attended 80% of all lectures in my LLB years.
Patrick	:	Only 20-30%. The time I spent at home or in the library, reading and sometimes chatting with others who likewise did not attend lectures.
Eric	:	Apart from one lecturer whose lectures I missed entirely, I attended 100% of other lectures.

3. What was your favourite subject? Why?

Ronny	:	Conflict of laws. I found it challenging.
Jack	:	Trusts, because it was relatively simplistic in content and approach.
Hilda	:	Criminal law. The lecturer was clear and his lecture outlines were helpful. The subject itself was interesting.
Patrick	:	Human Rights and Public Law. These two subjects have a human element and a social basis, and touch on broader topics than private law.
Eric	:	Contract, because it is systematic; Agency and Business Associations, because I found the cases on company directors to be intriguing; Evidence and Legal Theory, because they deal with facts and common sense and require a lot of thinking.

4. Did you have a favourite lecturer? If so, can you describe what made him/her special?

Ronny	:	No.
Jack	:	Yes. He was good to me. He made me his research assistant and also showed me a lot of respect.
Hilda	:	Yes. He is humorous, concise and quick to respond to questions.
Patrick	:	Yes. I feel that he really has his heart in his work. He is considerate to students and is flexible when it comes to handling classes and exams.
Eric	:	Yes. My favourite lecturer has all the qualities one can hope for in a lecturer. She is very diligent and reasonable. As a result, exams are not too difficult, the amount of assignments balanced and lectures interesting. She is flexible with deadlines. She also has a lot of stamina.

5. Which textbook did you give up reading after one term?

Ronny	:	Cheshire and Fifoot on Contract.
Jack	:	Philip Hood, Administrative Law (!) and Hart's Concept of Law.
Hilda	:	Treitel on Contract. It was a book both my lecturer and tutor disapproved of.
Patrick	:	None.
Eric	:	None.

6. How much money did you spend on photocopying in a week?

Ronny	:	Cannot recall, but it was a lot.
Jack	:	A great deal. Maybe over $60.
Hilda	:	$20-30. It is still 20¢ a page.

Patrick : Negligible.
Eric : In my second and third years, $20-30. In PCLL, less than $10.

7. What was the best place to go for lunch?

Ronny : A restaurant called "Pink Castle" (?)
Jack : Czarina, of course.
Hilda : Yum cha in Western District.
Patrick : For an extra-quick meal, Swire Canteen. Otherwise, yum cha in Western.
Eric : Lee Hall.

8. What was the worst place to go for lunch?

Ronny : Canteen at the main campus.
Jack : Students' Union canteen.
Hilda : Swire Canteen.
Patrick : Swire Canteen. Nothing good apart from speed.
Eric : Swire Canteen.

9. What was your worst experience in your years in law school?

Ronny : Can't think of any.
Jack : Attending a particular jurisprudence tutorial and getting into an argument with a lecturer.
Hilda : Waiting for exams results.
Patrick : Finding out that year-end evaluations of lecturers are ineffective.
Eric : Receiving my second year exam results, which were much worse than expected.

10. How much time did you spend revising for your LLB exams?

Ronny : Can't remember.
Jack : Not a whole lot of time because my girlfriend had just walked out on me.
Hilda : 3-4 weeks, namely during the last term break.
Patrick : 3 days for each subject.
Eric : I revised over the year. In my third year, I spent longer hours during the term break revising.

11. Do you think law students are different from students in other faculties? In what ways?

Ronny : Yes. Law students are too self-centred. That includes me!
Jack : Yes. We are more self-assured, more closely-knit and (in some cases) more articulate.
Hilda : I think all freshmen are alike, but second and third year law students do differ from students from other faculties. Law students tend to be more conscious of themselves and their appearance and more Patrick : Law students normally have more confidence in themselves. They are more concerned about social problems and issues. However, with the rapid expansion of the law faculty, these differences which I have mentioned may be less obvious now.
Eric : In law school, the student body is made up of people from a variety of backgrounds. Many law students already have other qualifications and degrees and may have been doing something totally unrelated prior to entering law school. Most other faculties consist mainly of matriculants. Also, I agree law students tend to be more conscious of their career options.

12. Do you think the legal system in Hong Kong will change for the better or for the worse after 1997?

Ronny : Worse.
Jack : I think it will, at least for the next few years, change for the worse. Hopefully, this will only be transitorial and transient.
Hilda : My main worry is whether human rights in Hong Kong can be preserved. Also, the question of the Final Court of Appeal is unsettled yet. Changes will occur but it is unclear whether they will be good or bad. Anyway, I think after 1997, legal education and training will also be changed so that a new breed of post-1997 lawyers will find it easier to adjust.
Patrick : Our present system is based on merit. After 1997, I not sure how many lawyers now practising in Hong Kong or serving in the judiciary will stay in Hong Kong and whether those staying will compromise their thinking and their values to adjust to changes to the legal system. I think that is crucial. A lot also depends on the possible conflicts between PRC-trained and HK-trained lawyers. But I don't think we can actually tell whether the changes are good or bad until maybe 10 or 20 years after 1997.
Eric : Inevitably, there will be increased interflow between Hong Kong and PRC lawyers. I think the legal system will change for the worse as far as human rights are concerned. The rights we enjoy today will suffer. However, I also think there will be greater development in civil and commercial law. This is due to greater development in business in China and the Asian-Pacific region, and is not necessarily related to the reversion of sovereignty in 1997. Overall, I feel the legal system will change for the worse. If civil and commercial law are the only areas which will benefit, then such a legal system will depend to a large extent on a person's status or economic wealth. Then the legal system becomes precarious.
